The Professional Trade Magazine:

Print and Online Issue

Screen printing, digital and textile printing: With these main editorial themes, the trade magazine SIP provides information for the industry. Professional features, extensive product overviews and structured news sections are the characteristics of SIP.

- We research thoroughly to provide our readers with relevant facts and in-depth analyses for their buying decisions and their daily work.
- We visit trade shows and manufacturers to investigate new technologies and trends.
- We work closely with experts to present business opportunities and tips for screen and digital printers.

The trade magazine SIP focusses on print service providers who are into screen or digital printing. This includes small shops and medium-sized companies as well as the biggest printers in the German speaking countries. Their business segments cover established, niche and future-oriented areas, like large format printing, garment decoration, production of promotional items and industrial applications. Decision makers from the executive board and from the production read our magazine. In addition, advertising agencies and marketing departments use SIP as a source of information.

The SIP online editions were used by 735 readers in the period from September 2024 - September 2025
